BRIGADIER GENERAL AMY S. COURTER

Brig. Gen. Amy S. Courter is the Interim National Commander of the all-volunteer Civil Air Patrol, a federally chartered nonprofit corporation and the civilian auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force, headquartered at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

Brig. Gen. Courter's primary duty is to lead CAP's 55,000-plus volunteers in fulfillment of the organization's three congressionally chartered missions: Emergency Services, Cadet Programs and Aerospace Education, as well as CAP's increasing role in America's homeland security.

As CAP's interim commander, Brig. Gen. Courter is also a member of both the CAP Board of Governors and CAP National Board – CAP's governing and advisory bodies.

Brig. Gen. Courter joined CAP's Michigan Wing in 1979 and most recently served as chair of the CAP Professional Development Committee. She served as commander of the Michigan Wing from 1999 to 2002 and as the senior adviser to the CAP National Cadet Advisory Council.

As wing commander, Brig. Gen. Courter focused on membership retention, funding, training and aircraft utilization. Under her leadership, the wing received all four of the Great Lakes Region's national program awards. She was founder and commander of the Michigan Wing Legislative Squadron, and Michigan became the second wing in the nation to have all congressional legislators join CAP. She also helped found and has directed the nationally recognized CAP Civic Leadership Academy, which gives cadets an in-depth, hands-on understanding of government.

Brig. Gen. Courter has completed all levels of the CAP Senior Training Program, having received the Garber, Loening, Yeager and Wilson awards. She has received numerous CAP honors, including the Distinguished Service Medal with two clusters, National Commander's Commendations, Exceptional Service, Meritorious Service and Commanders Commendation awards.

Brig. Gen. Courter is a graduate of Kalamazoo College, where she earned a bachelor's degree in psychology, with secondary school teaching certification in psychology, computer science and mathematics.

In mid-2005 Brig. Gen. Courter began a sabbatical after 20 years – most recently as vice president of Information Technology — with Valassis, a global billion-dollar marketing services company based in Livonia, Mich. While at Valassis, she expanded the IT department into a business, rather than just a support group, by developing business-to-business applications that generated revenue. Brig. Gen. Courter has been honored as one of "Crain's Detroit Business" top "40 under 40" and was named as an "Outstanding Young Michigander" by the Jaycees. She also received the "Premier 100 IT Leader" award from "Computerworld" in 2001 and the "Top Michigan Woman in Computing" award from the Association for Women in Computing in 2003.

Brig. Gen. Courter currently lives in South Lyon, Mich.
